LATIN AMERICAN EXPERTS ANALYZED INVESTMENT CLIMATE IN THE REGION

During the days 6 and 7 June, officials and economic experts in the field of Latin America met to discuss improvements to the climate of foreign investment in the region.

Officials and experts in the economic sphere of Latin America, meet in Panama during the days 6 and 7 June, to discuss improvements to the climate for foreign investment in the region, including the successful reforms in some countries.

Under the title of "Reforms in the investment climate in Latin America and the Caribbean" the conference, organized by the World Bank in conjunction with the Panamanian Government, assesses the different challenges that limit the growth of local enterprises and hinder your productivity, despite the job creation policies and significant improvements in the business environment.

In this conclave, Panama was represented by the holder of the Ministry of Economy and Finance, Frank De Lima, and the minister of the Presidency, Roberto Henriquez, who emphasized the achievements of the nation in attracting foreign investment.

Panama, being the second country with the smallest population in Central America, has become the largest recipient of foreign direct investment in the past three years, and in 2012 achieved overcome to other Latin American economies of the environment, with more than US$ 3,000 Million, which represents a 9% increase compared to 2011.

The conference also addressed the continuing obstacles to improving the investment climate in Latin America.